

Reflective Question Form from the Online Provider Module

| Please print this Reflective Question Form so you can think about | these questions | while you |
|---|-----------------|--------------|
| complete the Online Module. Feel free to jot down your answers of | r consider them | in your head |

| Please print this Reflective Question Form so you can think about these questions while you complete the Online Module. Feel free to jot down your answers or consider them in your head. |
|---|
| • What is/was your own sibling experience like? If you are a person who does not have a sibling with a disability, how is your experience similar or different than the relationships described in the video? |
| |
| • What has your experience been like working with siblings? After listening to these audio clips, which tip do you think would be most useful in your current position? |
| |
| How do you engage siblings now? What is one new way you will engage siblings in the |
| future? |
| www.siblingresources.org |

| Reflective Questions for Participant Download and Use |
|--|
| • What is one thing from What Siblings Would Like Parents and Service Providers to Know that surprised you? |
| |
| |
| • In the article I'm Constantly Thinking about Bev and her Future: Siblings Speak about Aging , Don Meyer says "If I have time for only one message, it is this: Brothers and sisters are too important to ignore because they will be in the lives of family members with special needs longer than anyone." Do you think that siblings of people with disabilities are ignored? If so, why? |
| |
| |
| |
| |
| www.siblingresources.org |